Acceptance Specifications for Communication Engineering Base Stations

Overview

What are the technical specifications for mobile broadband base station Radio Frequency equipment?

Technical Specifications for Mobile Broadband Base Station Radio Frequency Equipment 1. Legal Basis The Specifications are established on Paragraph 2, Article 66 of the Telecommunications Management Act. 2. Definitions and Abbreviations: 2.1 Definitions: NTXU, counted per cell: Number of active transmission units in a single cell.

How are NR base stations certified?

The NR base stations are now certified using several type acceptance criteria including TAC 0052, TAC 0073 and TAC 0114, which draw reference to the relevant specifications published by the 3rd Generation Partnership Project ("3GPP") as follows for selected test items to ensure efficient use of radio spectrum and to avoid harmful interference –.

Do base stations need to pass conformance tests?

Base stations need to pass conformance tests in the region where they will be installed before they can start operation in the field. For base stations the 3GPP specification TS 38.141 covers transmitter and receiver characteristics of base stations as well as receiver performance under noise and fading conditions.

What are 3GPP base stations conformance standards?

Based on the 3GPP base station conformance specifications, regional standardization bodies, local regulators and network operators implement test standards according to their needs. Base stations need to pass conformance tests in the region where they will be installed before they can start operation in the field.

Why is base station performance important?

Base station (BS) performance is vital for delivering expected quality of experience to end users. To ensure this, it is important that the base station conformance criteria is met and that they fulfill the requirements in the region in which they operate. These criteria are specified by the mobile communication standardization body 3GPP.

What is the operating environment of a base station antenna?

The operating environment of base station antennas is classified as remote, stationary, outdoor, uncontrolled and not weather-protected. The electromagnetic environment includes close proximity to intentionally radiating devices and installation on structures prone to lightning strikes.
