Can a container use a generator

Overview

Generators can be put into containers. There are a number of benefits to doing this including: Easier transportation and installation making them ideal for temporary or remote applications. Do reefer containers use generators?

For transportation by road or rail, reefer containers often use a diesel-powered generator set (gen-set). These gen-sets are mounted on the container or the transport vehicle, providing a reliable power source throughout the journey.

What is a generator container?

These containers are designed to protect the generator from external elements, ensuring secure operation in diverse environments. The generator sets within these containers can vary in size and capacity, making them suitable for a wide range of applications.

Why should you use a containerised generator set?

This protective enclosure safeguards the equipment from adverse weather conditions, dust, and other external factors. Additionally, the container offers increased security against theft or vandalism, making containerised generator sets suitable for applications where equipment safety is a concern.

Why do generators need a container structure?

The robust container structure provides enhanced security and durability to the generator set. This protective enclosure safeguards the equipment from adverse weather conditions, dust, and other external factors.

Can a generator run a refrigerated container?

A generator can be an important addition to your refrigerated container. A diesel generator is able to run a container for up to 5 days without the need to refill fuel. At MT Container GmbH in Hamburg, you can buy or rent generators for your containers, of course always after a comprehensive expert consultation.

Why are genset machines so important?
