

East Africa Zinc-Bromo Flow Energy Storage Battery Project

Overview

Are zinc-bromine flow batteries suitable for large-scale energy storage?

Zinc-bromine flow batteries (ZBFBs) offer great potential for large-scale energy storage owing to the inherent high energy density and low cost. However, practical applications of this technology are hindered by low power density and short cycle life, mainly due to large polarization and non-uniform zinc deposition.

What are zinc-bromine flow batteries?

In particular, zinc-bromine flow batteries (ZBFBs) have attracted considerable interest due to the high theoretical energy density of up to  $440 \text{ Wh kg}^{-1}$  and use of low-cost and abundant active materials [10, 11].

What is a zfb battery?

In the early 1970s, the Exxon developed the ZBFB as a hybrid flow battery system, where the energy is stored by plating solid zinc on the anode during charging. As a result, the energy output of the ZBFBs is dependent on the anode surface area and the overall size of the electrolyte storage reservoirs.

What is the power density of a zfb battery?

The ZBFB delivers a peak power density of  $1.363 \text{ W cm}^{-2}$  at room temperature. The ZBFB stably runs over 1200 cycles ( $\sim 710 \text{ h}$ ) at  $200 \text{ mA cm}^{-2}$  and  $60 \text{ mAh cm}^{-2}$ . Zinc-bromine flow batteries (ZBFBs) offer great potential for large-scale energy storage owing to the inherent high energy density and low cost.

Is there a non flow Zinc Bromine battery without a membrane?

Lee et al. demonstrated a non-flow zinc bromine battery without a membrane. The nitrogen (N)-doped microporous graphene felt (NGF) was used as the positive electrode (Figure 11A,B).

Can a zinc bromine static battery control self-discharge?

Gao et al. demonstrated a zinc bromine static battery with a glass fibre membrane as the separator to control the self-discharge and improve the energy efficiency (Figure 10). This static battery was achieved by using tetrapropylammonium bromide (TPABr) as the complexing agent.
