Overview

Where is ESB delivering a new battery energy storage system?

This latest battery energy storage system (BESS), currently the largest site of its kind in commercial operation in Ireland, is part of ESB's pipeline of projects which are being delivered at sites in Dublin and Cork – representing an investment of up to €300m.

Why is ESB launching a new battery plant in Dublin?

Wednesday, 7th February 2024 Dublin, Ireland – ESB has today opened a major battery plant at its Poolbeg site in Dublin which will add 75MW (150MWh) of fast-acting energy storage to help provide grid stability and deliver more renewables on Ireland's electricity system.

Who owns ESB energy storage?

A 75MW/150MWh BESS project in Poolbeg, in the Republic of Ireland's capital Dublin. It was inaugurated earlier this year and is owned by ESB Network's parent group ESB. Image: ESB. ESB Networks has announced that Ireland's electricity grid now has 1GW of energy storage available from different energy storage assets.

How much does ESB cost to build a battery plant?

ESB built the battery plant at a cost of around €75 million, working with New York-listed energy storage specialist Fluence, Irish engineers Kirby Group and national grid operator EirGrid. Mr Dollard explained that the batteries would support grid stability and allow more renewables on the Irish electricity system.

Will ESB invest €300 million on new battery sites?

Photograph: Fennell Photography 2024 ESB is eyeing new sites to store electricity after pledging to spend €300 million on existing battery facilities, according to one of the State energy group's executives.

How much is ESB spending on battery storage?

ESB is spending €300 million on battery storage facilities that will have a total capacity of 300 megawatts (MW), and Mr Dollard said that the group was likely to embark on more such projects those once those are completed.
