Overview

What is Adele - compressed air energy storage system?

The Adele - Compressed Air Energy Storage System is a 200,000kW energy storage project located in Stasfurt, Saxony-Anhalt, Germany. The electro-mechanical energy storage project uses compressed air storage as its storage technology. The project was announced in 2010 and was commissioned in 2013. Description.

How efficient are Germany's pumped-storage power plants?

Efficiency is between 75 and 85%. Today, Germany has pumped- storage power plants producing a total of about 7,000 MW. The expansion potential is severely limited, especially in northern Germany where the balancing need is greatest.

Why is Adele a smart solution?

"The massive and deliberate expansion of wind power requires smart solutions to ensure a non-stop continuous electricity supply. By means of the ADELE project, we take the lead to rapidly develop an efficient storage option", said Dr. Juergen Großmann, Chief Executive Officer of RWE AG.

What is Adele & RWE Power?

ADELE is bundling the know-how and experience of a power-plant operator, the manufacturing industry and research in an effort to clarify the open issues of the technology. RWE Power is coordinating the project. As future operator, it is drawing up the requirement profile.

What is pumped-storage power plant?

The technology of choice today is the pumped-storage power plant. In any excess power supply, water is electrically pumped into a reservoir on a hill, so that it can be discharged when power demand is high to drive a turbine in the valley. Efficiency is between 75 and 85%.
