How is ambulance care organised in the Netherlands?

Ambulance care in the Netherlands is organised by region into Regional Ambulance Services (RAVs). Since 1 January 2021, under the Ambulance Care Services Act, the RAV has been the legal entity that is legally authorised to provide ambulance care and that has to maintain the ambulance care dispatch centre.

What is the emergency phone number for ambulances in the Netherlands?

The emergency telephone number for ambulances in the Netherlands is 112. All EMS calls in the Netherlands are nurse-triaged. Triage is conducted using national evidence-based triage protocols and guidelines developed by the Dutch Ambulance Institute. Most dispatch centers use computer-based decision-support systems.

What are the different types of emergency care in the Netherlands?

There are emergency rooms and urgent first aid, but there are also general practitioner appointments and dental emergencies. We've broken them down into a few main categories so that you know who to call and where to go for each type of Dutch emergency care. How does the Dutch emergency healthcare system work?

For this, it is good to know that the Dutch emergency healthcare system is well-organized, with clear distinctions between levels of care. In life-threatening situations, the emergency number 112 is your first point of contact. It connects you to ambulance services, as well as the fire department and police, if necessary.

How do air ambulances work in the Netherlands?

In some cases, particularly for response to offshore emergencies, the civilian air ambulance system is supplemented by the three helicopters of the Search and Rescue service of the Netherlands Coastguard; using assets provided by the Dutch Navy and Dutch Air Force services. All of these helicopters are transport-capable.
