Can a breaker salvage a motorhome?

Salvage parts from a breaker can represent real value for money. Our nationwide team of breakers salvage provide motorhome parts for all current makes and models. Many motor caravans go on for years after the actual van model on which it was based has ceased production. Scrapyards can become an ideal place to source replacement parts.

Can U-Pull-It replace a caravan or motorhome breaker?

Replacement internal parts and fittings can be particularly difficult to source, but with U-Pull-It we can source caravan and motorhome breakers for you and have them transported to one of our yards for you to break and pull parts from.

What parts can I pull from a caravan breaker?

You can pull any number of caravan salvage parts from our breakers – from external panelling to door mechanisms, all the way through to internals such as kitchen fixtures, doors and storage to showers and other fixtures and fittings.

How do I get a caravan breaker?

Just give your nearest yard a call and exchange details and your specification and we'll do our best to get you a caravan breaker to your requirements. The vehicle will then need to be transported to your preferred U-Pull-It breakers yard in York or Edinburgh where it can be stripped by you at your convenience.

Are there extra labour charges for a caravan breaker?

Should you want the engine or battery there may be an extra labour charge. If you are looking for a caravan breaker in the Edinburgh or York area or if you have any questions about our breakers yards and services, please contact us.
